Dear Parents & Carers,

People who help us

Next week we will be starting our three-week topic, "People Who Help Us." Earlier in the year, we asked about your occupations, and we were really excited to learn that within our school community we have nurses, midwives, police officers, security officers, physiotherapists and many more.

To help bring this topic to life for the children, we would love to invite any parents or family members to come in and talk about their role, how they help others, and the difference they make in our community.

These visits are very informal – even a short 15-minute chat with a class can have a big impact. Sharing a uniform, photos, or talking about a typical day really helps the children make meaningful connections with their learning.

If you, or a family member, would be interested in taking part, or if you would like to find out a little more about what it might involve, please do speak to us at the door in the morning.

We would be delighted to hear from you.

Many thanks in advance.

Yours hopefully,

Year R

Our Padnell promise to be a: Giving citizen
